MOST COMMON NOODLETOOLS ERRORS—AVOID THEM!!!

- 1) Answering "Where is it?" incorrectly.
- 2) Answering "What is it?" incorrectly.
- 3) Trying to fill in every box for every source.
- 4) Confusing page numbers with number of pages. The length of an article (number of pages) is NEVER entered in NoodleTools. The range of actual page numbers on which you would find the article in the original source (e.g., 45-51) is what should be entered for pages.
- 5) Submitting a citation without checking the yellow warning triangles or ignoring those suggestions when corrections DO need to be made (especially capitalization errors).
- 6) After a citation for an article found in a database has been submitted, not clicking on the "View live web page" link to make sure the URL actually does link to that article.
